STATINTL MEMORANDUM FOR:

SUBJECT : CIA Support to Department of State
Training Programs

State's Midcareer Course in Foreign Affairs was terminated in the early sixties and no other course has replaced it. State does not have a CT type training program as such. It does have a Junior Officer Basic Course and a presentation on CIA is included in the course. The following Foreign Service Institute, Department of State courses are presently supported by CIA:

1. Senior Seminar in Foreign Policy - ten months (August to June), one day at CIA Hqs., schedule attached.
2. National Interdepartmental Seminar - three weeks, 6 times a year, one day at CIA Hqs., schedule attached. In addition to the day at Hqs., at least one person from both the DD/P and the DDI participate in area group seminars in each running. The NIS Coordinators Conference is held once a year. The DD/I spoke to the Conference this year, the DCI and the DDCI spoke previous years.
3. Intelligence and Foreign Policy Course - one week, once a year, two days at CIA Hqs. (One day on intelligence production; one day on Clandestine Service)

STATINTL

In October, 1968,  proposed exploring the development of a Project USEFUL type program for Foreign Service Officers. In January 1969, the DCI approved the proposal for a CIA Orientation Course for Selected Foreign Service Officers. On 21 March 1969, the DTR and  met with Ambassador Parker T. Hart, Director of the Foreign Service Institute to discuss CIA's willingness to offer a special orientation seminar for selected FSOs. In May 1969, the FSI proposed scheduling an FSI course on Intelligence and the Intelligence Community believing that such a course was the best first step toward the general objective of educating FSOs about Intelligence and Intelligence Agencies, particularly CIA. The possibility that at a later date a CIA sponsored orientation might be called for was not ruled out. The first FSI Course on "Intelligence and Foreign Policy" was conducted 8-12 December 1969. Two days of the five day program was devoted to CIA.

4. Administrative Operations and Management Course - 14 weeks, twice a year, one-half day at CIA, schedule attached. The 5 November schedule was limited to two hours by FSI request. However, at the end of the program all agreed that more time was needed.
5. Budget and Fiscal Operations - three weeks, once a year, one-half day at CIA, schedule similar to the above course. Course not offered in FY 72. Last time at CIA was 28 August 1970.
6. Junior Officer Basic Course (BFSO) - 6/7 weeks, six times a year, OTR gives a presentation on Mission, Functions, and Organization of CIA in each running.
7. FSI - Area Course for Military Reservists - two weeks, once a year, OTR gives a CIA Mission, Functions, and Organization briefing. Last briefing, 30 June 1971.
8. State/INR Orientation - One day, given as needed for new INR employees, one and one-half hour briefing on CIA given by OTR. Last briefing, 19 May 1971.
9. FSI-Center for Area and Country Studies - Agency guest speakers give approximately twelve presentations a year in various Area Study Courses. All speakers are from the DDI.
